About Hands Up for Haiti

Hands Up for Haiti (HUFH) was founded by a group of Westchester based doctors, nurses and laypeople, led by Dr. Irene Jill Ratner, who believe we can make profound changes in Haiti while drawing our own community together around a common cause: to work along side the Haitian medical community to help the people of Haiti help themselves. Although we are a small volunteer organization, the care we deliver has a huge and positive impact on the lives of our patients, the poorest of the poor.

We rely on the generosity of corporate and individual donors to fund these programs. Due to the generosity of our board of directors, who underwrite our administrative expenses, almost every cent of every dollar donated goes directly to helping children, mothers, grandparents and families through our medical programs, people who might otherwise be too poor to get medical treatment.

With your help, we will be able to expand our life saving efforts and increase dramatically the number of people we serve.

About Dr. Irene Jill Ratner

Dr. Ratner is a pediatrician in Mount Kisco who has taken care of the area's children for more than 35 years. Jill is not merely an excellent physician, she is also a committed humanitarian. Professionally, Jill served as Chief of Pediatrics at Northern Westchester Hospital and, until her retirement at the end of 2018, serves as Chief of the Pediatric Department at CareMount Medical. Away from her CareMount desk, Jill devotes herself to medical humanitarian work in Haiti, the poorest country in the Western Hemisphere. Jill is the founder, President Emeritus and Medical Director of Hands Up for Haiti.

In honor of her work here and in Haiti, Westchester Magazine named Dr. Ratner a HealthCare Hero of 2017, and her work has been featured in numerous newspaper articles and forums.
